Sociology Core Requirements: (2 units)
Students must earn the grade minimum in prerequisite courses (as noted below) before they may register for department core courses.

Introduction to Sociology – SOC 101
(or HON 216 – The Sociological Perspective)

Sociology explores the intersection of biography and history. Students learn the basic foundations of sociology, including its development as a field of inquiry, early sociological theory, and methodology. The course also analyzes social organization, addressing culture, structure, socialization, and social control. Because Sociology emphasizes social stratification and social inequality, students investigate how culture, class, race, sex, family, medicine, business, religion, education, and government affect our lives. Special attention is paid to the impact of society on self and understanding social structure.

[Grade minimum: B-]

AND either SOC 301 or SOC 302

Development of Socio-cultural Theory – SOC 301

Prerequisites: SOC 101 or HON 216

The response of social theorists to the consequences of the industrial revolution and the issues of capitalism, secularism, industrialism, modern consciousness, and the socio-critical enterprise, as seen through the work of such theorists as Marx, Durkheim, and Weber. Contemporary development of these theories will also be discussed.

[Grade minimum: C]

Quantitative Research Methods – SOC 302

Prerequisites: SOC 101 or HON 216 and STA 115 or STA 215

The course is designed to familiarize students with quantitative research methodology, methods of quantitative data collection, and analysis of quantitative data used in sociology. Students will learn one of the most widely used statistical software packages in the social sciences (SPSS) and conduct independent research using one of the most widely used sources of quantitative social data, the General Social Survey (GSS).

[Grade minimum: C]
